FORMALLY CHARGED WITH THE STELZ MURDER IN BROOKLYN-HIS FRIEND

MEYER UNREPENTANT. After listening to the testimony of a dozen or more witnesses yesterday, the Kings County Grand found an indictment against Peter Geistel, otherwise known as "Dutch Pete," charging him with the murder of George Stelz, of the Church of the Most Holy Trinity. Among the witnesses who testified before the Grand Jury were Kate Landers. who pawned Stelz's watch; Pauline and Charles Mergle, who purchased the pawn tickets from Mrs. Landers; Andrew C. Roesch, a boy who saw the urderer leaving the church; Dr. J. Francis Valentine, who made the autopsy, and Detective Becker. Another witness was Louis Schmidt, alias "Dutch Louis," who, it is said, has made a confession to

Earlier in the day Gelstel was arraigned by Captain James G. Reynolds before Justice Brenner in the Adams Street Police Court, charged with being an accomplice of Constantine Steiger, alias "Chris Meyer, convicted of the murder of Policeman Geistel told Justice Brenner that he knew nothing of the Stelz murder, and that he could prove he was not in Brooklyn at the time. He was remanded until Monday.

While in a cell in the Adams-st. court Geistel admitted to a reporter that he had served a year on Blackwell's Island for stealing a watch, as alleged by Louis Smith, alias "Dutch Louie." He declared, also that at the time of the Steltz mur-der he was rooming with Stephen Raube, in Newwill subpœna Raube to testify that he was with him on the night of the murder. He denied that he was with Steiger on the night that Policeman Smith was murdered. Gelstel says he came to this country from Munich about seven years ago, and worked for a butcher named Weber in Third-ave., near One-hundred-and-twentleth-st., for three years. He saved about $300, on which he lived when he got out of employment. He says he had only known Steiger for six or seven weeks altogether. Mary Muller, who is held as a witness against Geistel, says she does not remember whether or not Geistel was in her company on the night Policeman Smith was murdered.

Detective Reynolds has two boys, John Haft and Frank Gable, who live near the church in which Stelz was murdered, who positively identify Gelstel one of the men they saw lurking near the door of the church about the time Stelz was murdered. Young Gable also identified Steiger as a man he saw near the door of the church.

After being indicted Geistel was arraigned befor Judge Aspinall in the County Court, and pleaded not guilty through the German interpreter. When taken back to the pen the prisoner wrote a letter taken back to the pen the prisoner wrote a letter in German to Robert H. Elder, who will probably appear for him at the trial.

Since Meyer was convicted of the murder of Policeman Smith, and proved to have been connected with the Stelz crime, attempts have been made to fasten on him two-thirds of the mysterious murders of the last two or three years, among them the murder of Harris, the colored butier of M. C. D. Borden, and that of Professor Egiau, of the Deaf and Dumb Institution, in Lexington-ave. Captain McCluskey, of the Detective Bureau, said yesterday that the Meyer gang could not have had anything to do with the murder of Harris because Meyer was in jail at the time. Captain McCluskey also attaches no importance to the story from some of the sensational newspapers that the men were connected with the Egiau murder.

hewspapers that the men were connected with the Eglau murder.

McCluskey appeared in the Centre-st, court yesterday, and told Magistrate Brann that he had nothing against the man, Julian Berlinger, and the latter was accordingly discharged. Captain McCluskey asked that Louis Schmidt and Frank Smith, alleged members of the Meyer gang, be held until he had further investigated their actions. The men were remanded until this morning.

Meyer slept well on Thursday night. The Rev. Father Sander, of St. Leonard's Roman Catholic Church, of Williamsburg, who married Meyer and christened his children, called on him at the Tombs yesterday. Meyer refused to confess to the priest, and said: "If there is such a place as hell I want to be chief fireman, so that I can punish all those people that prosecute me." For an hour Father Sander labored to bring Meyer into a better frame of mind, but he failed to make any impression on him.

"I don't believe in any hereafter," declared the murderer. "There is no Heaven nor hell. If there was a God there would not be such a condition of affairs in the world, and then there would have been no need of me stealing to make a living." He, however, expressed a strong desire that the priest should call on him again.

COLLISION ON THE EAST RIVER.

THE QUARANTINE STEAMER RUNS INTO THE JOSEPHINE B. AND CUTS A HOLE

The steam lighter Josephine B., while backing away from her pier, No. 18, East River, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was run into by the Quarantine steamer State of New-York and badly damaged. The steamer was coming down the river from Pier No. 23 to her tying-up place, at Pier No. 8. Just before she got opposite Pier No. 18, the tug Montauk, with a tow of canalboats, came along. The tug was burning soft coal, and huge volumes of smoke were pouring from her stack, and the pilot the State of New-York declared that the smoke so obscured his view that he did not see the Joseph-ine B., and consequently the steamer ran into her. The injured vessel began to take in water im-mediately after she was struck, and blew her whis-tle for assistance. Those on board thought she might sink at any minute. The wrecking tug Hustler heard the whistles of distress, and went to the rescue as quickly as possible. She pushed the lighter back into her berth, and putting her steam pumps to work kept her from sinking until the hole in her hull had been temporarily repaired.

COLLISIONS WITH CABLE-CARS. A team of horses driven by John Lyons, of No. 236 East Twenty-fourth-st., and owned by Dennis Gilroy, of No. 224 East Twenty-fourth-st., ran away ast night from Fifth-ave. and Thirtleth-st., while Lyons was in a house delivering a package. At Lyons was in a house delivering a package. At Lexington-ave, the team ran into a cable-car, and one of the horses was killed. Nobody was injured. INTERESTING OPERATIONS IN UPTOWN PROPERTY.

One of the curiosities of New-York City realty was sold yesterday by Edward P. Steers, president of the Twelfth Ward Bank, to James L. O'Brien for $4,500. The brokers were Barnett & Co., and the property is the one-story store No. 2,650 Lexington-ave., which stands on the west side of the avenue, 100 feet south of One-hundred-and-twenty-fifth-st. It has a frontage of less than 33 feet and a depth for 20 feet of 7 feet 5 inches, running thence to a point at the southerly end of the frontage. As the plot contains less than 250 square feet, the price now paid for it is at the rate of $18 a square foot.

now paid for it is at the rate of $18 a square foot.

By applying the Hoffman rule, of the comparative value of front and rear, however, it is found that the price of $4,500 is only at the rate of $10,000 for a full inside loi, 25x100. The store is rented at $20 a month to a tenant, who was there when Mr. Steers bought it, four years ago.

John N. Goiding sold for Collis P. Huntington yesterday the vacant lot on the north side of Seventy-second-st. 175 feet east of Flithave, size 25x100, to oliver G. Jennings. The latter will erect a dwelling for himself on the property. This sale is especially interesting in view of the report, which was vigorously denied by Mr. Huntington a few days ago, that he was selling out all his real estate holdings in this city and would live for the most part in San Francisco in future.
